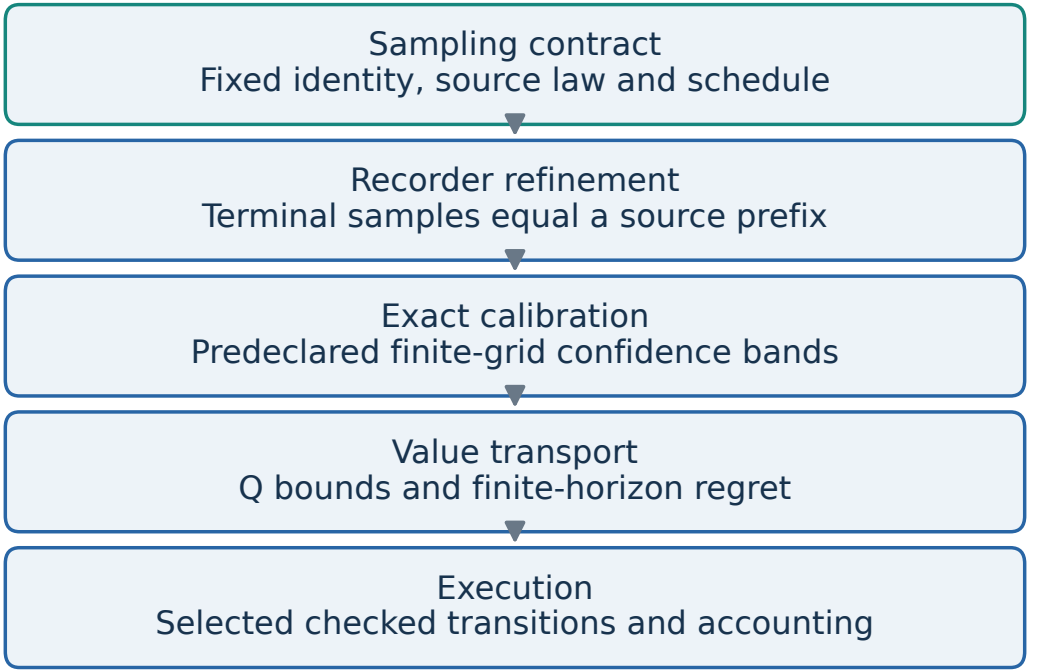
From declared evidence to a policy guarantee



Physical source integrity and durable storage need their own justification.