
The theorem uses enough moments to determine the annihilator rather than guessing a preferred edge set.