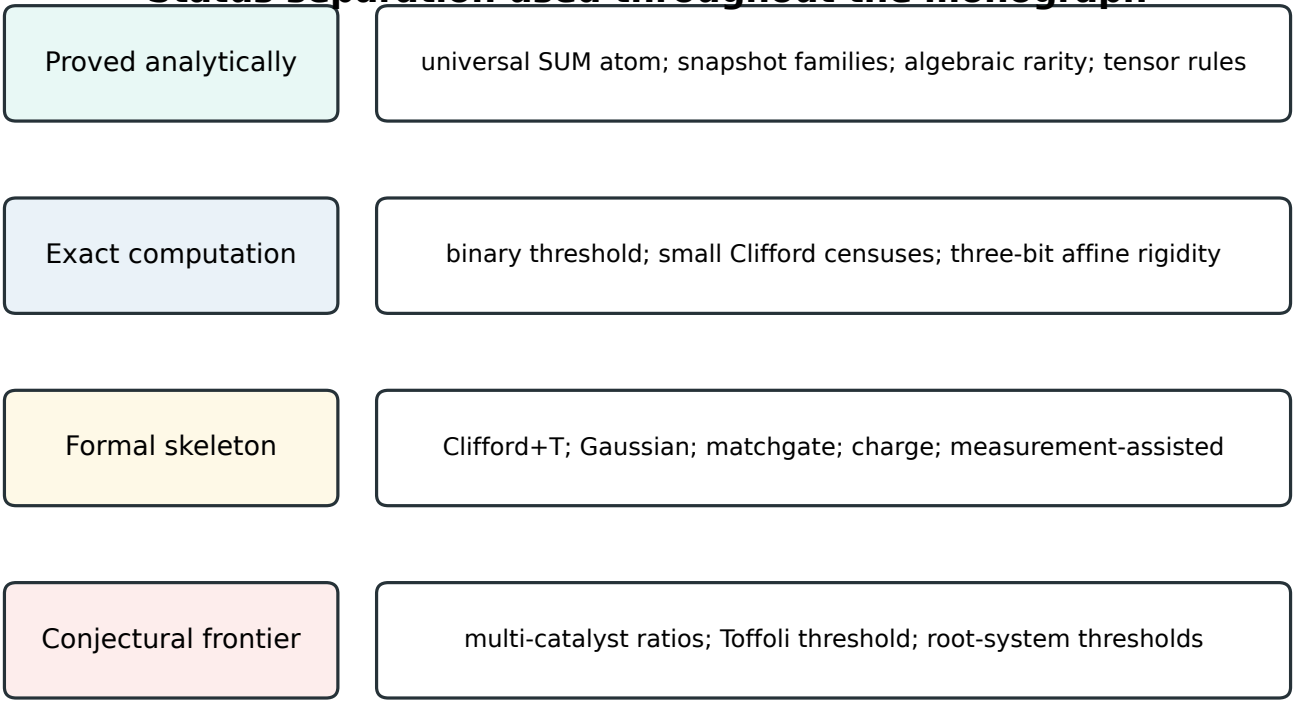
Status separation used throughout the monograph



A symbolic research program is useful only when proved, computed, and proposed claims remain distinct.