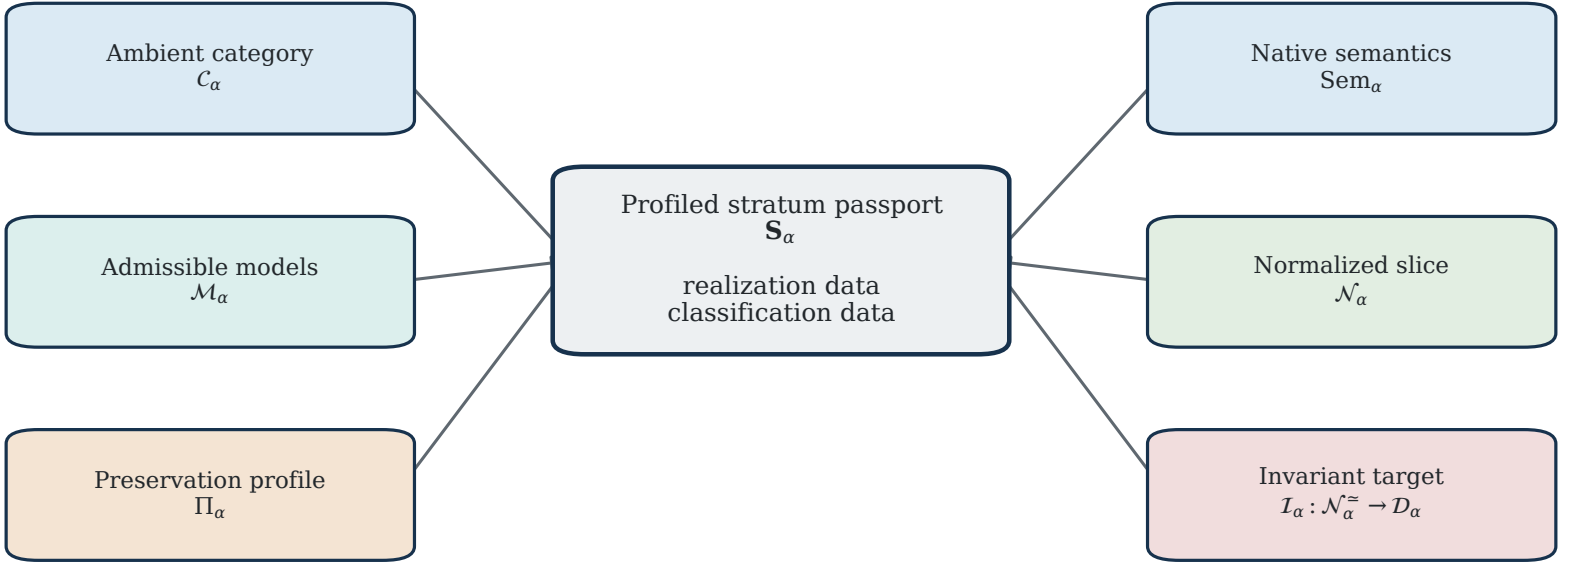
A chart is a typed passport, not merely a collection of examples



Normalization and completeness are optional theorem fields; they are not inferred from the existence of a realization.